

- The Fund aims at long-term capital growth and income by investing in US and/or Canadian corporate debt securities and equities.
- The Fund is exposed to significant risks of investment/general market, company-specific, creditworthiness/credit rating/downgrading, default, valuation, asset allocation, country and region, emerging market, interest rate, currency (such as exchange controls, in particular RMB), and the adverse impact on RMB share classes due to currency depreciation. The Fund's investments focus on US and Canada which may increase concentration risk.
- The Fund may invest in high-yield (non-investment grade and unrated) investments and convertible bonds which may subject to higher risks, such as volatility, loss of principal and interest, creditworthiness and downgrading, default, interest rate, general market and liquidity risks and therefore may adversely impact the net asset value of the Fund. Convertibles may also expose to risks such as prepayment, equity movement and greater volatility than straight bond investments.
- The Fund may invest in financial derivative instruments ("FDI") which may expose to higher leverage, counterparty, liquidity, valuation, volatility, market and over the counter transaction risks. The Fund's net derivative exposure may be up to 50% of the Fund's net asset value.
- This investment may involve risks that could result in loss of part or entire amount of investors' investment.
- In making investment decisions, investors should not rely solely on this material.

Note: Dividend payments may, at the sole discretion of the Investment Manager, be made out of the Fund's capital or effectively out of the Fund's capital which represents a return or withdrawal of part of the amount investors originally invested and/or capital gains attributable to the original investment. This may result in an immediate decrease in the NAV per share and the capital of the Fund available for investment in the future and capital growth may be reduced, in particular for hedged share classes for which the distribution amount and NAV of any hedged share classes (HSC) may be adversely affected by differences in the interests rates of the reference currency of the HSC and the base currency of the Fund, particularly if such HSC are applying the IRD Neutral Policy.

ⁱThe average annualized dividend yield of the last 12 months means the average of the annualized dividend yield of each month from March 2025 to February 2026. Annualized Dividend Yield = $[(1 + \text{Dividend Per Share/Ex-Dividend Date NAV})^{12} - 1] \times 100$. The annualized dividend yield is calculated based on the latest dividend distribution with dividend reinvested, and may be higher or lower than the actual annual dividend yield. Positive distribution yield does not imply positive return. Dividend is not guaranteed. Historical dividend yield is not indicative of future dividend payouts.

Market Insights

1. High Yield Bonds: Offering one of the highest yields globally

- High yield bonds are among the highest yielding fixed income options, offering a competitive level of yield with lower interest rate sensitivity.

2. Convertible Bonds: Potential for upside participation and less downside risk

- Convertibles combine both equity and debt features, allowing investors to participate in equity price appreciation and could offer downside protection given its debt feature.
- Importantly, they provide investors with the flexibility to cope with market volatility.

Chart 2: US convertibles participating in the upside and cushioning the downside

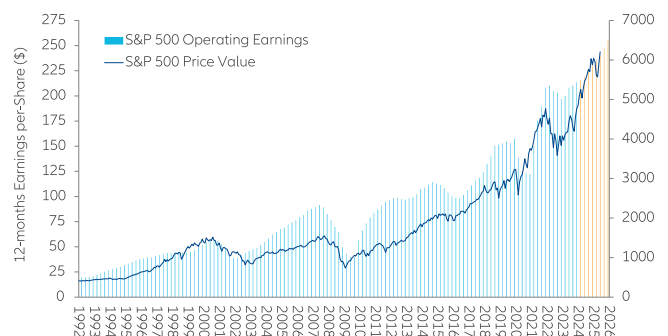

3. Equities: V-shaped recovery

- US equities have recovered this year's losses as odds of a recession and global shock receded.
- Corporate earnings in Q1 remained resilient, highlighting the underlying strength of US companies.
- US trade and fiscal policies are beginning to take clearer shape with ongoing the tariff negotiations and tax policies. Anticipated Fed rate cuts could be a tailwind for the second half of the year.

Chart 4: Income and growth potential (for illustration only)

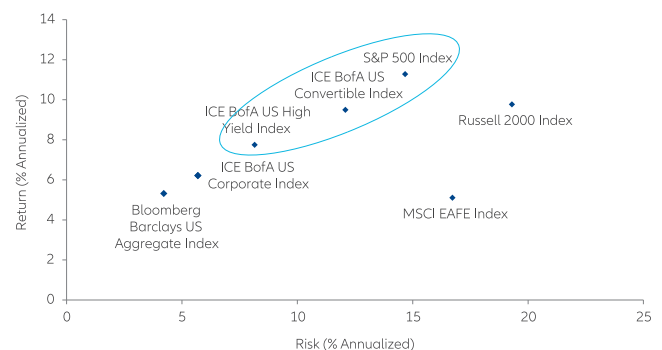

3. Position for income and potential growth

- A multi-asset portfolio offers potential diversification benefits.
- Through the three asset classes, with their favourable risk/reward profile, the Fund allows for potentially reduced exposure to volatility compared to an equity-only fund, along with a low correlation to rate-sensitive investments.

The Federal Reserve is cutting rates again

1. Markets expect a lower terminal rate than FOMC's 'median dot'

- The Fed has resumed its rate cutting cycle in September in response to a softening labor market and moderating inflation.
- Markets are pricing in further easing through year-end, suggesting a target of 3.6% by end of 2025 and 3% by 2026.

2. How asset classes respond to Fed rate cuts

- Historically, the 3 assets classes in I&G, namely US High yield US convertibles and US equities have delivered strong positive returns in the year following the Fed rate cuts

Chart 7 source from Morningstar Direct, as of 30 September 2025. It shows average return of the S&P 500, ICE BofA US High Yield Index (US HY) and ICE BofA All US Convertible Index (US CB) in the 1yr and 2 yr following the first rate cut, covering seven cycles since 1987.

Chart 7: Average return on the 3 underlying asset classes of I&G one & two year from first rate cut

3. Consistent Income irrespective of rate cycle

- The three distinct asset classes provide seven distribution sources classified in two ways:

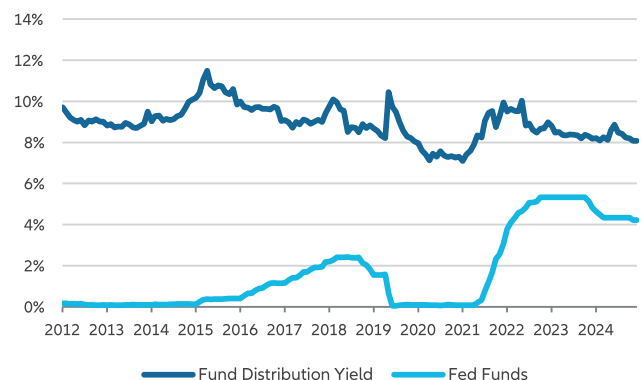

Investment income: High yield coupons, convertible coupons and equity dividends

Capital Gains: Gains from high yield, convertible, equity and covered call premium

- The Fund aims to provide a stable income stream regardless of market volatility and Fed interest rate cycles
